DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

A metal concave pent roof protects the front door and window of this two story row house. This building abuts another house on the left and a narrow alley on the right. The first floor has been completely remodeled. The front door is hidden by a pair of blinds. There is three sided oriel which contains four windows (two in the center panel). Each narrow window has sixteen panes in two vertical rows. Two stock grooved pilasters frame the door and window with another narrower one between them.

The second floor preserves the original two bays. The windows have stone sills and lintels and wood blinds. The cornice does not extend to the edges of the building. Its end bevel inward conforming to its front profile.
